

Sean Furman

Sean Furman has been the Testing Coordinator for CASLI for almost 2 years now and enjoys his digital (as well as in person) interaction with people via email, phone, and virtual meetings.

He is an alumni of Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT) / National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) as he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Film, Video & Animation and is currently working on a graduate degree at RIT in Communication, Service Leadership, and Management.

After moving to Arizona in 2002, Sean worked in various fields such as advocacy, education, interpreting and human service. In 2015, after 12 years of residing in Phoenix, Sean and his family moved back east to Rochester, NY where Sean worked at RIT/NTID in different roles of project management, customer service and as a supervisor working closely with students and others.

Sean has a strong passion for theatre, film, and giving back to the Deaf community as he has been heavily involved with different organizations over the years. During his free time, he enjoys spending time with his husband and their awesome triplets (two boys and a girl) going on adventures and exploring new things as well as the family's weekly "Movie Night". With Sean's multifarious experiences, he continues to enjoy tackling the challenges his role as testing coordinator brings.
