

Roxanne Dummett

Roxie Dummett is currently ASL lecturer/assistant professor at George Mason University and used to be ASL adjunct at Northern Virginia Community College for more than 10 years. She has earned BA and MA from Gallaudet University. She's also Black American Sign Language researcher and presenter and narrator in the published "The treasure hidden of Black ASL book. The BASL is now recognized all over the world according to The NY TIMES article on Black ASL.

